Summary

Aspiring Full stack Developer | Passionate About Building Usable, User-Centered Web Tools

I'm a web development student driven by curiosity, creative problem-solving, and the goal of making the web more functional and intuitive for users. With a solid foundation in HTML, CSS, and JavaScript, react, node, MangoDB... I've already brought ideas to life—like crafting e-commerce sites with shopping carts and filters, and developing productivity tools like digital study planners using Notion.

I'm also drawn to the strategic side of projects: exploring Agile and Lean methodologies, digging into feasibility studies, and learning from missteps to improve outcomes. Every project teaches me something new about designing with empathy and building for real-world needs.
